Dear Valued Customers,

RE: Winter Fuel Adjustment Charge (FAC)

The FAC has declined over the fall months, however, we are seeing an increase in prices heading into winter and will most likely see another larger increase in January and February and possibly beyond.

The FAC is a line item included on your bi-monthly electric bills as defined in RVC's Electric Tariff. The purpose of the FAC is to account for fluctuations in purchased wholesale power and transmission costs. While fuel is one source of cost fluctuations, there are several factors calculated in the FAC. Most, if not all electric utilities use a similar method to account for price fluctuations. Rockville Centre Electric does not control these fluctuations but will continue to provide information to help you anticipate them. Below are two links to our website where you can find additional updates and energy saving tips.

Please visit the RVC Electric Department for updates.

Reducing electric consumption can help save on your monthly electricity bills. Energy Saving tips can be found on the Electric Department website.
